

Kim Markovich

CFO/CTO (Fractional)

Years with AMI: 5

College / University: Purdue University/DePaul University/Benedictine University

Major: Business with Accounting Concentration, MBA

Client Touchpoints

Kim Markovich cultivates executive-level relationships across the Company's enterprise client base. She initiates early-stage contact with purchasing and strategic stakeholders and manages contracting, price negotiations, and Company-Client partnership development.

AMI Role Snapshot

Kim Markovich currently serves as Chief Financial Officer and Chief Technology Officer for AMI and its brands AMI Meetings.health and American Meetings, Inc., with responsibility for supporting the enterprise technology approach, operational performance, and financial execution with a focus on scale and efficiencies. Kim executes these responsibilities within agreed timelines with skill and precision while incorporating purposeful change management.

She provides recommendations and strategy in support of AMI's growth and leadership development, and is in close contact with the owners and key executives of the business.

Bio Synopsis

Kim Markovich is a highly experienced executive leader with a background in finance and accounting, operational transformation, and client services. She brings over 30 years of experience from multiple industries including hardware, software, SAAS, hospitality, training and e-learning. As CFO and CTO of AMI, Kim is responsible for providing support and recommendations to the AMI executives for financial accuracy, process improvements, system investments, policies, and strategic insights for the Company. Prior to her current role, Kim served as Managing Director for AMI, supporting all operations and growing the company receipts by over 100%.

Kim holds a Master of Business Administration from Benedictine University as well as a Bachelor's degree in Business Management from Purdue University. She currently lives and works with her husband Matthew in Naperville, Illinois.